

Introduction to Energy Insurance

Course Description

This course provides an introduction to energy insurance with a broad knowledge of offshore energy insurance, the types of risks insured, the cover available in the market, and how and where they are placed.

Target Audience

The course is suitable for both underwriting and broker staff, whether placing or claims. The course assumes no prior knowledge. The course will also be of use to individuals who work in underwriting or broker back up, and who require a broad knowledge of the subject.

Course Objectives

On completion of the course the delegates will:

- Understand energy insurance risks and the terms used
- Understand an outline of the cover provided by the insurance market and mutuals
- Be able to identify the types of risks written in the market
- Understand how risks are placed and underwritten
- Understand the legal aspects of energy business

Course Format

The course will be presented by a lecture, discussion, exercises and case studies.

Course Content

- The London Energy Insurance Market – the buyers, sellers and intermediaries
- The types of offshore and construction energy risks written
- The legal aspects to energy insurance
- How risks are placed and written
- An outline of the cover provided by the market and mutuals

Trainer Len Wilkins FCII

Len Wilkins has worked in marine and aviation insurance in both underwriting and broking. He has been involved in training for many years. He runs his own training consultancy and is employed by many organisations in the London insurance market. He has acted for Government Agencies, Banks and insurance companies and is an honorary visiting Lecturer University of Manchester Institute of Science and Technology. He is also a contributor to a number of Sweet and Maxwell publications on insurance and CII text books.

Duration 1 day

Date 15th September 2010

Time 9.30 am - 5.00 pm

Venue IMC Training Rooms, 16 St Clare Street, London EC3N 1LQ

Fee £295.00 +VAT (including refreshments and buffet lunch)

Bookings To reserve a place on this course please contact Tony Gregory
Telephone: 020 7481 9070 or email: tony.gregory@imc-seminars.com